Background and Methodology

Patrick E. Gonzales graduated magna cum laude from the University of Baltimore with a degree in political science. His career in the field of public opinion research began in the mid-1980s as an analyst with Mason-Dixon Opinion Research. During this time, Mr. Gonzales helped develop, craft and implement election surveys and exit polls for television and radio in the Baltimore-Washington D.C. metro area.

Mr. Gonzales has polled and analyzed well over a thousand elections in the mid-Atlantic region and across the country since that time. Furthermore, he and his associates have conducted numerous market research projects, crafting message development plans and generating strategy blueprints for businesses and organizations throughout the state.

Over his 35 years conducting public opinion polls, Patrick Gonzales has been widely recognized by his peers for his ability to conduct unbiased surveys, and analyze the results in an impartial, even handed manner.

Mr. Gonzales appears frequently on radio and television in the region as a guest commentator, and has penned numerous articles on politics over the years. During an interview on The C4 Show at WBAL 1090 AM radio in Baltimore, Maryland on October 27, 2016, Mr. Gonzales was one of the very few pollsters in the nation to state publicly that Donald Trump would win the 2016 presidential election.

This poll was conducted by Gonzales Research & Media Services from January 16th through January 21st, 2020. A total of 410 registered voters in Delaware, who indicated that they are likely to vote in the 2020 general election, were queried by live telephone interviews, utilizing both landline (35%) and cell phone (65%). A cross-section of interviews was conducted across the Diamond State, reflecting general election voting patterns.

The margin of error (MOE), per accepted statistical standards, is a range of plus or minus 5 percentage points. If the entire population was surveyed, there is a 95% probability that the true numbers would fall within this range. The MOE is higher for subgroups of the sample, such as party or the City of Wilmington.

Synopsis

A 90-minute Amtrak ride away, Donald Trump's legal defense team is kicking into high gear in the Senate chamber at the U.S. Capitol as voters in Delaware are giving the president middling marks for his performance in office. Statewide, 45% approve of the job Trump is doing as president, while 51% disapprove, with 4% offering no opinion.

Ninety-one percent of Republicans approve of the job Trump is doing, but 79% of Delaware Democrats disapprove, as do 50% of independents. By gender; 43% of women approve and 54% disapprove, while 48% of men approve of the job Donald Trump is doing and 47% disapprove.

Among African Americans in Delaware, only 12% approve and 87% disapprove of the job he is doing as president.

We tested Republican Trump against the five Democrats at the top of national polls in hypothetical election match ups. Joe Biden, Delaware's hometown lad, easily defeats Trump in the state, 56% to 40%. Biden, not surprisingly, wins the black vote 9-to-1, but also keeps the white vote competitive, trailing by only 3 points. Further, Biden takes a majority of the vote in every age group.

The four other Democrats we tested against Trump struggle to get ahead of him in a state Hilary Clinton won by 12 points four years ago.

Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren leads Trump, 49% to 46%. She captures 81% of Democrats, but is ahead with women by only 12 points (54%-42%) and trails with men by seven, 44% to 51%.

Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders has a mere 1 point lead over Trump, 47% to 46%. Sanders appears to be surging in the Democratic nomination process, but is behind Trump in Delaware among general election independents (a very different strain from primary-participating independents), 43% to 46%. Further, Sanders is up with women by 11 points (53%-42%), but trails Trump among men by ten (41%-51%).

Herein lies the dilemma for Democrats: let's stipulate that 45 percent of the country align one way, and another 45 percent line up at the counterpoint end of the political continuum...leaving a remaining determinative ten percent, frequently referred to as the independent vote.

This independent vote does not fit easy description; it can be amorphous, and as a group (not the individuals who comprise the group) can appear chameleon-like. The independent vote contributing to Sanders 20%+ victory margin over Hilary Clinton in the 2016 Democratic primary in New Hampshire was very different from the independent vote that gave Trump a 0.77% victory margin over her in Wisconsin in the general election that year.

To defeat Trump this year, the Democrats will need someone in November who can appeal broadly to independent voters: the arbiters…the "ten-percenters."

Former South Bend, Indiana Mayor Pete Buttigieg is the only other Democrat to hit the 50 percent mark against Trump. Statewide, he captures 50% to Trump's 45%. Buttigieg captures 78% of Democrats and 49% of independents.

Former Republican (and former Independent) Mayor Michael Bloomberg of New York leads Trump in Delaware, 48%-47%, bagging 50% of independents and 10% of the GOP vote, but only 72% of Democrats. Crossover appeal is valuable for a politician, but not if it's at the expense of diminished enthusiasm within one's base.

Forty-nine percent of Delaware voters approve of the job Governor John Carney is doing in Dover, while 28% disapprove, and 23% offer no opinion. By party, 61% of Democrats, 24% of Republicans, and 58% of independents approve of the job Carney is doing as governor.

Fifty percent of voters approve of the job U.S. Senator Tom Carper is doing in Washington, while 35% disapprove, with 15% offering no judgment. By party, 73% of Democrats, 16% of Republicans, and 47% of independents approve of the job Carper is doing as a United States senator.

Senator Chris Coons has the highest approval rating of the 4 officeholders in Delaware we measured in this poll. Statewide, 55% approve of the job Coons is doing, while 34% disapprove, and 11% offer no opinion. Seventy-three percent of Democrats, 16% of Republicans, and 47% of independents approve of Coons.

Congresswoman Lisa Blunt Rochester has the best positive approval ratio of the 4 for her performance in office: 49% approve/22% disapprove (2.2-to-1), with 29% offering no opinion.

November 2020 Presidential Match Ups

We asked voters - who said they were going to cast a ballot in November – for whom they would vote, if the 2020 election for president were held today. We tested Republican Donald Trump against the five Democrats at the top of national polls.

The results of the Gonzales Poll in Delaware:

DEM Joe Biden (56%) vs. REP Donald Trump (40%)	-	DEM +16
DEM Pete Buttigieg (50%) vs. REP Donald Trump (45%)	-	DEM +5
DEM Elizabeth Warren (49%) vs. REP Donald Trump (46%)	-	DEM +3
DEM Michael Bloomberg (48%) vs. REP Donald Trump (47%)	-	DEM +1
DEM Bernie Sanders (47%) vs. REP Donald Trump (46%)	-	DEM +1

Winning 56% statewide, Joe Biden captures 84% of Democrats and 60% of independents against Trump, while running even in Kent County and near even in the Republican stronghold of Sussex.

The former vice president, as expected, wins the African American vote 9-to-1, but also keeps the white vote in The First State competitive, trailing by only 3 points (46% - 49%).

Further, Biden takes a majority of the vote in every age group.

Mayor Pete Buttigieg, whose term in South Bend, Indiana ended at the beginning of the year, is the only other Democrat in this poll to hit the 50 percent mark. He garners 78% of Democrats, 49% of independents, and 57% in populous New Castle County.

Massachusetts Senator Elizabeth Warren captures 81% of Democrats and 40% of independents.

Against Trump, former Republican and former Independent New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg captures 50% of independents and 10% of Republicans, but only 72% of Democrats.

Vermont Senator Bernie Sanders takes 76% of Democrats, 4% of Republicans, and 43% of independents.
