Survey Notes

These results are from a Saint Anselm College Survey Center poll based on online surveys of 1065 New Hampshire registered voters. Surveys were collected between June 21st and 23rd, 2023, from cell phone users randomly drawn from a sample of registered voters reflecting the demographic and partisan characteristics of the voting population. Names were presented in random order for the candidate preference questions. The survey has an overall margin of sampling error of +/- 3.0% with a confidence interval of 95%; The margin of sampling error for the primary ballot tests is 4.8% for the Democratic ballot and 4.4% for the Republican ballot. The data are weighted for age, gender, geography, and education based on a voter demographic model derived from historical voting patterns, but are not weighted by party registration or party identification.

Summary of Findings

New Hampshire Institute of Politics Executive Director Neil Levesque summarized the results, saying, "At this early stage of the presidential primaries, voters seem intent on seeing a rematch of the 2020 election. President Joe Biden is the early choice for 68% of Democratic Primary voters, with neither of his current challengers garnering significant support. Former President Donald Trump is consolidating support in the face of several candidates diluting his opposition, and is the preference of a strong plurality of 47% of Republican Primary voters. Despite this, an astonishing 83% of voters overall would view a Biden/Trump match-up in 2024 as a clear sign that the party system is broken. As of today, voters seem headed toward precipitating a rematch of 2020 that few claim to be happy about."

Neither of President Joe Biden's current challengers appears to pose a significant threat to the incumbent. With this survey's shift from testing potential candidates to testing announced candidates, Biden has consolidated 68% support among Democratic Primary voters. Recent entrant Robert Kennedy, Jr. has ridden a wave of publicity to 9% support, while repeat candidate Marianne Williamson picks up 8%.

Former President Donald Trump is looking to repeat his successful 2016 pathway to victory of scattering opposition among several opponents. As new entrants have emerged since our last survey, Trump has gained 5 points of support and now sits just shy of a majority with 47%. Meanwhile, Florida Governor Ron DeSantis has seen his support erode 10 points to 19%. Former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie is now in third place in the state, followed by former United Nations Ambassador Nikki Haley and South Carolina Governor Tim Scott.

Voters across demographics and parties believe a Biden/Trump matchup would be a clear sign that the party system is broken. Republicans (14%) are somewhat more inclined than Democrats (6%) to believe such a match-up represents the best that each party has to offer, but 83% overall disagree.

Trump would face some message difficulties in the General Election. Only 27% believe his claim that the 2020 presidential election was stolen, and only 42% believe that the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop are a legitimate election issue. A clear majority (55%) believes that the recent indictments of Trump are legitimate. None of these issues will hurt Trump in the primary, as 50% of Republican Primary voters do believe the 2020 election was stolen, 78% believe that the Biden laptop is a legitimate campaign issue, and 76% believe that the indictments are politically motivated.

Trump does benefit from a favorable contrast with Biden on the question of age. 70% of voters, including 50% of Democrats, are concerned about the age of the 80- year old incumbent, while only 34% are concerned about the age of the 77-year old former president.

As of now, Biden would prevail in a rematch with Trump in New Hampshire. 49% of respondents would vote for Biden, while 40% would vote for Trump.

Florida Governor Ron DeSantis will have to articulate a clear rationale for his challenge to Trump if he is to avoid falling back to the pack. The rationale won't be that he's a palatable alternative to the former President, as he demonstrates no better ballot strength (Biden 49%-40%) among General Election voters.

About SACSC

The Saint Anselm College Survey Center (SACSC) was founded in the wake of the 2016 election, and launched its first poll in February 2018 as the midterm elections were getting underway. Housed within the New Hampshire Institute of Politics at Saint Anselm College, the Center conducts quarterly polls of New Hampshire voter attitudes and additional polls as circumstances warrant. This research supports the academic mission of the College, and provides students with a practical education in survey techniques while providing the public at large with insight into political opinion trends that impact the state's federal and gubernatorial elections. To support its operations, the Center performs commissioned research on behalf of nonprofit organizations and corporations.
